

Blog

First chance ever

Friday, May, 29, 2009 0 comments

Thanks to Audrey for this tip...

Goldbug Studio in Raleigh, which creates vintage-inspired decorative items and "follies" for the home and any occasion, will hold its first ever open house this weekend at the studio, 518 Pershing Road, in the Five Points area.

Founded by Ashley Carter (pictured), and staffed by an amazing team of artists, Goldbug's collections have been sold exclusively through high-end retailers including Bergdorf Goodman, Anthropologie, John Derian Company and high-end boutiques across the country.

"Hosting a gala and our first ever open house is the perfect way to share our follies and a little bit of our vibe with the Triangle community," Carter said.

Check out the details at www.goldbugstudio.com.

- brenda

blarson

Raleigh magazine publisher/editor